

Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam
Former President of India

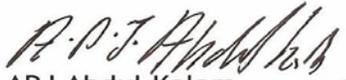

2 December 2009

Message

I am delighted to know that Madam Dr. Y.G. Parthasarathy has been honoured with International Achievement in Excellence Award by the Center for Excellence in Education, McLean, Virginia, USA on 12th September 09 in Cambridge, Massachusetts. This is a fitting tribute to the decades of contribution to education by Madam Dr. Parthasarathy, particularly in the field of science and technology. I am very happy that the Parents and Teachers Association of PSBB Schools in partnership with the Alumni Association are organizing a felicitation function in recognition of the conferment of International award to Madam Dr. Parthasarathy on 8 December 2009 who has created and nurtured number of dynamic schools with the following characteristics:

1. A school that radiates greatness by the teaching capacity of the teachers and students walk with teachers.
2. A school is great, because it cherishes the learning environment with library, internet, e-learning and creative laboratories.
3. A School is great, because it creates and generate students with confidence that "I can do it" that in-turn will generate the team spirit that "We will do it" and "The nation will do it".
4. A School that promotes best in learning all-round to all the students. Students stand on the shoulders of great teachers.
5. A School is great because it has teachers who lead a unique way of life with purity and become role models for the students and develop them as enlightened citizens.
6. A School is great because it has the capacity to teach all students to succeed.
7. A School that generates creativity among all students irrespective of whether they belong to arts or science stream.
8. A school is great, that generates alumni who cherish that they belong to this school.
9. A school is great because its teachers are continuous learners and introduce technology of teaching continuously.
10. A school is great because there is a healthy collaboration between the school and parents

My congratulation and greetings to Madam Dr Parthasarathy and her dedicated team for their achievement. My best wishes to all the members of PSBB success in their educational mission.
